ANNOUNCEMENTS BY COUNCIL MEMBERS

0.01. Mayor Hemminger Regarding Council Member Parker in OC Visitor's Guide.

[\[22-0669\]](#)

Mayor Hemminger distributed a copy of the Town's new Visitors Guide and noted a photo of Council Member Parker on the cover.

0.02. Mayor Hemminger Thanks To Staff for Handling Meeting Logistics.

[\[22-0670\]](#)

Mayor Hemminger thanked the Council and staff for rescheduling the current meeting after she had been unexpectedly called to the White House to discuss Chapel Hill's plan for American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) spending. She said that the evening's work session would focus on the $1 million in ARPA funds that the Council had agreed to allocate to community non-profits. The Council would discuss remaining ARPA allocations at its October 3, 2022, meeting, she said.

0.03 Mayor Hemminger Regarding TOCH and Carrboro Participating in NCDOT's Fall Litter Sweep.

[\[22-0671\]](#)

Mayor Hemminger noted that Chapel Hill and Carrboro were participating with the N.C. Department of Transportation in a fall "Litter Sweep". She mentioned ways that the public could join the effort to remove trash from streams and other areas.

0.04 Mayor Hemminger Regarding Planning Commission and Number of Units Approved by Council.

[\[22-0672\]](#)

Mayor Hemminger said that the Council had approved approximately 1,900 units of housing over the past three years and that more than 400 (21 percent) of those had been affordable. She would forward a report on that to Council Members, she said.

0.05 Council Member Stegman Regarding the Durham Pride Parade on September 24, 2022.

[\[22-0673\]](#)

Mayor pro tem Stegman reminded everyone that the annual Pride Celebration would be held in Durham on September 24th. Festivities would begin at 10:30 a.m. and continue all day, she said.

Mayor Hemminger shared that one of her sons had recently become engaged to be married.

AGENDA ITEM(S)

1. American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) Community Partner Application Update.

[\[22-0662\]](#)

Director of Business Management Amy Oland and Special Projects Manager Sarah Poulton updated the Council on the plan to allocate $1 million in ARPA funds to community projects. They presented a review of the application process and discussed the scores for each of 31 eligible projects. They asked the Council to consider which projects would qualify for funding and what additional information would be helpful.

Ms. Oland reviewed a proposed timeline and said that a Council vote in the fall would enable funds to be distributed by December 31, 2022. Ms. Poulton described the application process and the training that staff had provided to both the applicants and those scoring applications.

Ms. Poulton said that there had been 34 applications (from 30 different organizations). Nine of those supported public health, 20 addressed Covid's negative economic impacts, and five addressed both categories, she said. She reported that three of the projects had been deemed ineligible and that the remaining 31 had requested a total of $6.8 million.

Ms. Poulton reviewed the scoring criteria. She said that 30 scorers came from four different groups and included graduates of the People's Academy. She described the evaluation process, which included applying an equity lens, and explained the scoring mechanism. She said that projects had been ranked in categories such as Food and Supplies, Public Health, Economic Impact, and Affordable Housing.

Ms. Poulton presented lists of recommended projects, which were divided into several groupings. She asked the Council to consider those, ask questions, and prepare to vote on the plan on October 19, 2022.

Council Members commented on the large range of projects and amounts being presented and expressed concern that some would need continuing funding after ARPA money ran out. They said that they had wanted to see one-time projects or those that were sustainable. They stressed the importance of having applicants understand that there would be no commitment to continue funding after the one-time grant.

Ms. Oland and Ms. Poulton said that staff had been specific about that. They believed that applicants understood that the funds were meant to alleviate the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, they said.

The Mayor and Council proposed that staff obtain more information about the sustainability of the recommended projects. They proposed ranking applications and separating out those that would require only one-time funding. Mayor Hemminger pointed out that doing such an exercise would provide staff with useful information about how the Council would likely vote.

Council Member Huynh asked for more information regarding sub-categories and the nuances of how projects were scored. He did not feel certain about the idea of having the Council rank projects and would prefer that staff provide different scenarios on what the money could do, he said.

Council Member Searing expressed discomfort with the idea of the Council picking and choosing grant proposals outside of the budget process. However, he generally preferred projects that specifically addressed the effects of the pandemic, he said.

Council Member Parker said that he was reluctant to substitute his judgment from the staff's. He and Council Member Anderson proposed eliminating a portion of the list, such as the bottom third, and then obtaining more information on the remaining candidates. Mayor pro tem Stegman expressed concern, however, merely removing the lowest-scoring applicants could skew the distribution, she said. She wanted some additional categorization as well, she said.

The Council agreed that the list should be limited to self-limiting projects that were in direct response to COVID-19. Mayor Hemminger said that removing applications that did not fall into that category would allow a deeper analysis of the eligible applicants.

Council Member Huynh confirmed with Town Attorney Ann Anderson that Council Members could not rank or vote on projects by organizations where they were board members. Mayor Hemminger determined that Council Members Searing, Anderson, Stegman, Ryan and Parker were on applicant boards and would not be able to rank or vote on those applications.

The Council discussed trying to determine if there were other funding mechanisms for the remaining projects. Mayor Hemminger pointed out that many of the proposed programs would normally go through the Town's Human Services Advisory Board. Others could consider a different route for Town funding, such as the Affordable Housing Initiative or other ARPA funding categories, she said.

Council Member Parker noted that applicants needed to understand that the Town would not be able to help them financially prior to January 2023. Ms. Oland replied that staff would work with applicants regarding that, and Attorney Anderson pointed out that each organization receiving a grant would have a performance agreement with the Town.

Mayor Hemminger confirmed that staff had enough information to move forward with shortening the list and doing more research on remaining applicants. She said that a separate item regarding other ARPA funding would come before the Council at its October 3, 2022, meeting.

The discussion was continued to October 03, 2022.
