Inter-Faith Council for Social Service

GOOD NEIGHBOR PLAN

Inter-Faith Council @ SECU Community House

1315 Martin Luther King, Jr. Blvd.
Chapel Hill, NC

Introduction and History

Inter-Faith Council for Social Service (IFC), which was established in 1963, provided emergency shelter services for the Chapel Hill/Carrboro community at the Old Municipal Building in downtown Chapel Hill from 1986 to 2015. In 1998, IFC relocated its shelter services for women and families to the new HomeStart campus on Homestead Road and soon thereafter began searching for a suitable site to relocate its residential services for homeless men. In 2008, UNC-Chapel Hill identified a parcel of land on Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd. that could be considered for the new Community House, subject to the Town's permitting and approval process.

At the Town's suggestion, IFC conducted a series of community discussions in the spring of 2010, prior to applying for a Special Use Permit, which happened in June 2010. IFC applied to build a two-story, 16,500 square-foot building at 1315 Martin Luther King, Jr. Blvd. to accommodate both a 52-bed transitional housing program and a 17-cot emergency shelter for homeless men.

The Public Hearing for the Special Use Permit began on March 21, 2011 and was continued on May 9, at which time the Town Council voted 6-2 in favor of the Special Use Permit application and also adopted "Resolution C" requiring a Good Neighbor Plan for the new Community House project. Resolution C states that "establishing mutual understanding and respect for program residents and the community will be the primary goal of the Good Neighbor Plan," and that "a variety of interests...be represented during the creation" of the plan (see attachment for Resolution C).

Prior to writing the first draft of the Good Neighbor Plan, IFC staff requested examples of similar plans from the American Planning Association's Planning Advisory Service and later conducted an online search and found plans drafted in Toronto, Canada; Lawrence, Kansas; and Portland, Oregon. IFC drew heavily on the Good Neighbor Plan for the Hawthorne Homeless Shelter in Portland, Oregon (<http://gr8clay.com/hawthorneblvd/gnphmlss.htm>) for the outline of its first draft. IFC also reviewed and found some information that was helpful in the Management Plan for the Lawrence Community Shelter, Inc. in Lawrence, Kansas (http://www.lawrenceshelter.org/pdf_library/06_2010managementplan.pdf) and the Toronto Shelter Standards produced for homeless shelters in Toronto, Canada (http://www.toronto.ca/housing/pdf/shelter_standards.pdf).

IFC reached out to the stakeholders identified in Resolution C, as well as other neighbors, and invited an initial set of representatives from those groups to provide suggestions and advice to IFC in developing the Good Neighbor Plan. The 19 individuals who accepted IFC's invitation were convened by IFC as the Good Neighbor Plan Advisory Committee (the Advisory Committee), which met for the first time on July 11, 2011. At the suggestion of the Chapel Hill Town Council, four additional representatives, including a representative from the neighborhood organization known as A Better Site, were added to the advisory committee on November 1, 2011. The Advisory Committee included residents from six nearby neighborhoods as well as representatives from a nearby business, four congregations, three local social services agencies, the homeless population, UNC-Chapel Hill, Community House, and the IFC Board of Directors.

Professional meeting facilitation provided by the Dispute Settlement Center assured that all committee members were able to make suggestions and express diverse opinions during the process. The Advisory Committee members were also given the opportunity to seek input from Town, IFC and other community resources during the drafting process. The Good Neighbor Plan was written by IFC staff in consultation with the Advisory Committee and was approved by the IFC Board of Directors on April 18, 2012.

At a meeting of the Chapel Hill Town Council on March 8, 2023, Council received a joint report from Town staff and the Orange County Partnership to End Homelessness on the state of homelessness in Orange County. Among other things, the report indicated that Chapel Hill and the surrounding community would benefit from updating the model of Community House to be in line with federal best practices for shelters, local homeless system written standards, and to be consistent with the Town's values and commitment to equity. Town Council expressed an interest in the Good Neighbor Plan being updated for consistency with best practices. IFC's Board of Directors then approved proposed changes for consideration by the Town Council.

Good Neighbor Expectations

IFC's Community House campus is primarily intended to shelter community members experiencing homelessness.

Consistent with its initial intent, the Good Neighbor Plan sets an expectation for mutual respect between community members residing at Community House and those living and working in neighboring properties:

- Community House residents are encouraged to be welcoming and courteous to neighbors in the community and to follow the organization's health and safety policies as well as other policies and procedures outlined in program materials. Such policies will change and evolve over time.
- Neighbors of Community House are encouraged to be welcoming, equitable, and inclusive to Community House residents and to consider contacting IFC about ways to contribute needed services or items.
- IFC is encouraged to maintain standards of behavior for Community House residents and staff and to support other community members in being good neighbors to members of the community who are experiencing homelessness.

Description of the Community House Program

IFC's Community House campus is primarily intended to shelter community members experiencing homelessness with a capacity that is in compliance with all regulations and the underlying special use permit. Program design, services, access, and lengths of stay may vary over time, depending on community need, best practices, funding regulations, and applicable laws.

Statement of and Provision for Resident Needs

Residents and guests of Community House will be treated with dignity and respect. They are provided with sleeping and shower facilities, limited storage of belongings, and other services and amenities as available. Staff and community partners work together to support residents in transitioning into more permanent housing and with linkage to other available services in the community.

Details of off-site pick-up and drop-off location(s) for emergency guests

Residents and guests will use the mode of transportation available to them in order to access Community House.

Safety, Health, and Security Rules for Community House Residents

IFC is committed to working with its neighbors and community partners to promote a safe and healthy environment on the Community House campus and in the surrounding community.

To that end, IFC will:

- Provide trained staff during hours of operation.
- Maintain health and safety policies that outline standards of behavior for residents, guests, and staff of Community House. Violation of policies will be addressed through a progressive disciplinary procedure that may include coaching, warnings, and suspension from services.
- Connect residents to a wide range of services and supports in the community.
- Follow established protocols for handling inappropriate or dangerous behavior on campus, including suspending individuals from services when necessary.
- Follow all applicable laws, including those that limit access for community members on the sex offender registry.
- Maintain an appropriate level of external lighting and surveillance.
- Engage local fire, safety, and emergency personnel, as needed.

Crime Prevention Strategies

IFC has established policies in order to maintain health and safety in its programs. Such policies prohibit behavior that is against the law. Residents will be required to comply with these policies in order to reside at Community House, and IFC will reach out to public safety authorities for assistance, as needed.

Control of Loitering

IFC will address individuals who are not authorized to be on our property in accordance with our policies and procedures.

Control of Litter

IFC will strive to maintain clean, well-kept facilities and grounds and will perform routine maintenance on the property, including picking up litter and disposing of trash.

Standards and Procedures for Communications and Reporting

IFC promotes positive relationships and believes that open communication channels with community partners and neighbors are critical. IFC endeavors to effectively respond to difficult challenges and other issues that may arise at Community House. Community members who have concerns are encouraged to call or email IFC leadership directly. While staff will do their best to address issues, there may be limitations to what the organization is able to do, especially if concerns or challenges are related to gaps in larger systems.

Community Education

IFC will work with its governmental and community partners to collectively provide education about homelessness, including causes, consequences, and solutions.

Referral of Concerns

Concerns about Community House and its operations should be referred directly to IFC leadership. Leadership will do its best to address issues that arise while also recognizing that some concerns are related to gaps in larger systems.

Roles and Responsibilities of the Community House Advisory Committee (CHAC)

A Community House Advisory Committee will be convened as needed to support communications between IFC and the larger community. IFC will determine the need to convene a committee and will schedule both committee and community-wide meetings.

Mediation and Dispute Resolution

IFC is committed to resolving conflicts that may arise between Community House and nearby residents and/or other parties. In the event there are challenges that cannot be resolved between IFC leadership and other parties, mediation may be recommended by IFC. If mediation is pursued, costs will be shared by all involved parties.

Amending the Good Neighbor Plan

Recommendations to amend the Good Neighbor Plan can originate from IFC's Board of Directors or the Town Council. Any recommendations to amend the Plan must be approved by the IFC Board of Directors before being voted on by Town Council.
