

Chapel Hill Public Library uses internet filtering software on library-owned computers. This software blocks users from seeing pictures of obscenity and child pornography, as defined by Miller v. California (1973) and 18 U.S.C. 2256.

Library staff can override filtered content for adults upon request.

Filtering software is not foolproof. The library is not responsible for any content accessed via our computers. Children 9 years old and younger must remain with a parent or caretaker while using library computers.

In addition to internet access via library-owned computers, we provide free and open WiFi over an unsecured network.

Please be careful when sharing or accessing your personal information when using the library's computers or WiFi. By using library computers and WiFi, you agree to hold the Town harmless in the event that any information is lost or stolen.

You may not use library computers or WiFi for any illegal activity.

Computer and WiFi users must abide by our expectations of behavior.
